Background Information

Providence First Trust Company is an independent trust company and a market leader in trustee services for Native American children's trusts. We handle similar trusts for many other Native American communities and currently with many Native American children that live across the country. In fact, we are located in Indian Country on the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community reservation near Scottsdale, Arizona. When you call us, you will not have to go through any recording or menu, but rather, you will directly speak to one of our Tribal Trusts Staff members that exclusively work with Native American parents and children.
