Hualapai Green Arrow Gardening Project
“Pa qwi:d vasu gwe hwal jo”
Series #1, January 29, 2021

The New Year has begun, and the gardening season is upon us. The Hualapai community garden, located at the Cultural Center, went through a complete rest last year, as Covid 19 completely changed the way we must act. Being in quarantine, and unable to go out for regular shopping trips may have increased the awareness of our dependence on grocery stores for all our food. Perhaps those movement restrictions inspired thoughts of being able to provide food for yourself, as our ancestors once did. Peach Springs has good climate and we are able to grow gardens here. It does take innovation to work a garden. Gardens just don’t happen, they are created. There are many challenges throughout the growing season before we see every seedling we plant grow. Hopefully, the new year and some new opportunities to get involved with growing plants will inspire you and your family to take the plunge into gardening, growing your own food, harvesting, preserving, food safety and saving seeds.

Gardening is an enriching activity for the entire family. From planning and preparing your garden, planting seeds, transplanting, sampling fresh produce, and enjoying the abundance from the garden. With attention to challenges, you can be successful in growing your own food and the reward of overcoming your fears of why you haven’t gardened sooner.

Peach Springs has heavy clay soils with a hard caliche layer underneath. Some residences are on bedrock, with little soil available, and lots of rocks! Does that discourage you, and one of the reasons you haven’t tried planting? We also have dogs that like to dig and lay in watered areas. Weeds can be overwhelming, and gophers and ground squirrels are always hungry, and seem to believe you plant just for them! Taken together, the challenging issues seem hopeless and frustrating to even think of starting a garden. As a gardener, success is finding solutions without having to be a scientist, but finding what works in planting spaces and getting them done. Mother Earth is giving; the more you give to her, the more you will receive. I want Mother Earth to give you much more than you expected in your gardening efforts.

The Cultural community garden will be a preparing and planning the upcoming growing season to be successful. We will have days for community members to come and learn about what it takes to grow plants, and will have “work” days, where it will be fun learning practical gardening skills, as well as how to implement them in your own garden. We have a new garden work shed area that will encourage everyone to take part in the gardening experience. In addition to work days, we will have planting, maintenance and watering activities. I hope to see you join us, as the growing season inspires everyone to get involved in gardening.

GAP (Green Arrow Project) will be holding a ‘virtual’ gardening workshop the week of March 12, so please be on the lookout for more information on time and place. In the meantime, you can participate in, “Seed to Supper” online garden classes, brought to you by Mohave County Extension, starting Feb 10th, from 12-1PM, running for 6 weeks. “Gardens just don’t happen, they are created, you become the creator of something very positive.” Gardening is a healthy activity for the entire family. We intend to provide the community with support for growing your knowledge in all areas of gardening. It’s fun and exciting to learn together.

WHAT ARE RNA VACCINES AND HOW DO THEY WORK?

WHAT ARE RNA VACCINES?

SARS-CoV-2

Viral RNA

The virus's genetic material. Contains instructions for making proteins.

Spike protein

Protein which helps the virus penetrate cells and initiate an infection.

The genetic code of the SARS-CoV-2 virus is made up of RNA. Scientists isolated the part of this genetic code that contains the instructions for making the virus's spike protein.

RNA VACCINES: BENEFITS AND CHALLENGES

VACCINE PRODUCTION

RNA is easy to make in a lab, so RNA vaccines can be developed quicker than other vaccines.

SAFETY OF THE VACCINES

RNA can't cause infection and is broken down by normal processes in our cells. An RNA vaccine hasn't been licensed for use in humans before but they've been under development for several years for other viruses, including influenza, HIV, and Zika.

STORAGE AND TRANSPORT

Some RNA vaccines must be stored at low temperatures to remain stable, which makes storage and transport more challenging.

RNA VACCINES FOR COVID-19

Several proposed vaccines for COVID-19 are RNA vaccines. They can be based on two different types of RNA.

- mRNA vaccines
  - Moderna
  - Pfizer & BioNTech
  - Arcturus
  - CureVac

- saRNA vaccine

mRNA and saRNA: WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

The structures of mRNA and saRNA are similar but have a key difference, as the diagrams below show.

mRNA

- mRNA stands for messenger ribonucleic acid
- Untranslated regions
  - Regions which don’t contain code for proteins

saRNA

- saRNA stands for self-amplifying ribonucleic acid
- Translated coding region
  - Code for viral replication enzyme

As saRNA produces more copies of itself once it's in a cell, it can be given in smaller doses than mRNA vaccines. This makes the cost per dose lower and means higher numbers of doses can be produced from the same volume of vaccine.
NEW COVID-19 VARIANTS

WHAT WE KNOW

Viruses constantly change through mutation, and new variants of a virus are expected to occur over time. Sometimes new variants emerge and disappear. Other times, new variants emerge and persist. Multiple variants of the virus that causes COVID-19 have been documented in the United States and globally during this pandemic.

The virus that causes COVID-19 is a type of coronavirus, a large family of viruses. Coronaviruses are named for the crown-like spikes on their surfaces. Scientists monitor changes in the virus, including changes to the spikes on the surface of the virus. These studies, including genetic analyses of the virus, are helping us understand how changes to the virus might affect how it spreads and what happens to people who are infected with it.

WHAT WE DO NOT KNOW

Scientists are working to learn more about these variants, and more studies are needed to understand:

- How widely these new variants have spread
- How the new variants differ
- How the disease caused by these new variants differs from the disease caused by other variants that are currently circulating
Public health officials are studying these variants quickly to learn more to control their spread. They want to understand whether the variants:

- Spread more easily from person to person
- Cause milder or more severe disease in people
- Are detected by currently available viral tests
- Respond to medicines currently being used to treat people for COVID-19
- Change the effectiveness of COVID-19 vaccines.

There is no evidence that this is occurring, and most experts believe this is unlikely to occur because of the nature of the immune response to the virus.

CDC, in collaboration with other public health agencies, is monitoring the situation closely. CDC is working to detect and characterize emerging viral variants and expand its ability to look for COVID-19 and new variants. Furthermore, CDC has staff available on-the-ground support to investigate the characteristics of viral variants. CDC is collaborating with EPA to confirm that disinfectants on EPA’s List N: Disinfectants for Coronavirus (COVID-19) external icon inactivate these variant viruses. As new information becomes available, CDC will provide updates.

#StopTheSpread

The Covid-19 Vaccination is an important tool to help stop the pandemic

01 The safety of the vaccines is top priority
The U.S. vaccine safety system ensures that vaccines are as safe as possible. The two FDA approved Covid vaccines have been tested on over 74,000 people. The vaccines are found to be safe and 94–95% effective 02 Facts about the vaccine.

- The vaccine will not give you Covid-19, there is no live virus used in vaccine
- The vaccine will not cause you to test positive on a covid-19 viral lab test
- Getting vaccinated can help prevent getting sick with Covid-19
- People who have gotten Covid-19 may still benefit from getting the vaccine
- The vaccine will not alter your DNA

03 Side effects that have been reported include but are not limited to: pain at injection site, redness or swelling at injection site, tiredness, headache, muscle pain, chills, joint pain, fever, nausea, swollen lymph nodes, allergic reaction

04 How long until I’m protected?
- Two doses are required and will be scheduled 3–4 weeks apart.
- You may not be fully protected until 1–2 weeks after your second dose of vaccine

Family-Teacher Conferences

As we did last fall, to help keep everyone safe, we are spreading our family-teacher conferences over two days this week, so we can sanitize the rooms between conferences to reduce the possibility of transmission. Both Wednesday and Thursday will be minimum attendance days, with students released at noon. Remember, students should attend conferences with you.

The conference schedule is being sent out today. If you are not able to make your scheduled time(s), contact your student’s teacher as soon as possible.

EMAIL NOTIFICATIONS

Beginning with this month’s newsletter, calendar and conference schedule, we will be rolling out our new email notification system. You should see an email from (school-info@valentineaz.net). We will continue to send home paper copies home with students, but we understand that not all families receive the information.

We currently have at least one email from every household in the notification system. We will be adding the email addresses of people on the students’ emergency contact lists as we move forward.

In order to make sure you are getting all the information from the school, be sure and update your contact information with us as it changes.

New staff emails have been created to make it easier to contact us. All follow the same format. Mr. Angle’s email, for example, is mr.angle@valentineaz.net

VALENTINE ONLINE

Add our website, www.valentineaz.net, to your Bookmarks or Favorites list.

You can also find us on Facebook: https://www.facebook.com/valentineazk8 and request to join our Valentine School Families Group https://www.facebook.com/groups/229258078126673

How Can I Help My Student?

- Learn with your student – I have issued a challenge to our students to learn at least two new words per day. Not just to learn the words, but to learn what they mean (synonyms, related words), but most importantly – to use them. Ask your students what words they learned each day and give them opportunities to use them.
- Keep safety a priority – We are extremely proud of our school that we have had zero (0) cases of in-school transmission of COVID-19. For the most part, students have been very good about following the procedures of wearing face coverings, using hand sanitizer and maintaining social distancing. Of course, they are children, and need to be reminded from time-to-time. We appreciate your help with that.

SPELLING BEE

The Spelling Bee is back on!!! The superintendents in Mohave County have determined that we can hold the spelling bee safely, so we are back!

Our Valentine Elementary School Spelling Bee will be on Wednesday, February 10th at 9am. For safety reasons, only students who have chosen to participate will be spelling. Each speller is allowed to invite one (1) adult guest. Guests will be required to have their temperatures checked, wear face coverings and maintain social distancing procedures.

Know the Difference
Cardiovascular Disease, Heart Disease, Coronary Heart Disease

Cardiovascular disease, heart disease, coronary heart disease — what's the difference?
Because these terms sound so similar, people use them interchangeably. This fact sheet will help you understand how these conditions differ.

Cardiovascular Disease
The big umbrella
Cardiovascular disease is the term for all types of diseases that affect the heart or blood vessels, including coronary heart disease (clogged arteries), which can cause heart attacks, stroke, heart failure, and peripheral artery disease.

Coronary Heart Disease
A type of heart disease
Coronary heart disease is often referred to simply as "heart disease," although it's not the only type of heart disease. Another term for it is coronary artery disease.

More than 800,000 people die of cardiovascular disease every year in the United States.

1 in 3 deaths

Heart Disease
A type of cardiovascular disease
"Heart disease" is a catch-all phrase for a variety of conditions that affect the heart's structure and function. Keep in mind — all heart diseases are cardiovascular diseases, but not all cardiovascular diseases are heart disease.
The most common type of heart disease is coronary heart disease. In fact, when people talk about "heart disease" they often mean coronary heart disease.

Nearly 650,000 Americans die from heart diseases each year.
About 11% of American adults (that's more than 1 of every 9) have been diagnosed with heart disease.

What you can do to protect yourself from cardiovascular diseases?
There's a lot you can do to protect your heart.
- Ask your doctor about your blood pressure, cholesterol, and AIC.
- Reduce the sodium, and increase the fruits, vegetables, and whole grains in your diet.
- Be physically active.
- Maintain a healthy weight.
- Don't smoke.
- Manage stress.
- Keep your diabetes under control.

Move More
Making Physical Activity Routine

Heart disease is a leading cause of death in the United States. The good news is that you can lower your risk of getting it or having a stroke by simply moving more. Many types of activity can help your heart—going on a hike or taking the stairs, biking to the store or around the block, wheeling yourself in your wheelchair. Figure out what works best for you.

How much is enough?
As little as 60 minutes a week of moderate-intensity aerobic activity such as walking briskly helps your heart. For major health benefits, aim for at least 150 minutes (2½ hours) a week. Or go for 75 minutes a week of more vigorous activity such as playing basketball, running, or jumping rope, which gives the same benefits. The bottom line: More activity means a bigger boost to your health.

It’s up to you how you reach your own personal targets. For example, 30 minutes of physical activity, five times a week, is one option if you’re aiming for 150 minutes a week.

Can’t carve out a lot of time in your day? Don’t chuck your goal, chunk it! Try 10 minutes a few times a day, for example.

Only have 10 minutes? Consider:
- Walking briskly for 5 minutes, turning around and walking back
- Dancing (standing or seated) to three songs
- Getting off your bus early and walking the last stretch

You’ll know you’re moving enough to help your heart if
- Your heart is beating faster
- You’re breathing harder
- You break a sweat

Or, try the talk test:
- During physical activities, like brisk walking, you should be able to talk, but not sing.
- During activities such as jogging, you can’t say more than a few words without pausing for a breath.

Why move more?
Being active can:
- Protect your heart (even if you have heart disease)
- Improve blood flow
- Lower blood pressure and cholesterol levels
- Give you more stamina and ability to cope with stress

If you’re inactive, you’re nearly twice as likely to develop heart disease than if you’re active. Learn more about the benefits of physical activity on the NIH BI website.

Get strong
In addition to aerobic activity, take time to strengthen your muscles. Try to work your leg, hip, back, chest, abdomen, shoulder, and arm muscles. Aim to do muscle strengthening twice a week in addition to your aerobic activities.

All adults should avoid inactivity.
Start gradually and increase slowly.

Get motivated

Try these tips to make being active part of your everyday routine:

Add a friend or family member
- Take a yoga or other fitness class online with a friend.
- Share your fitness goals with your spouse or roommate.
- Commit to a walking schedule with a friend or family member, even if you can’t walk together.

Do what you love
- If you enjoy the outdoors, try biking, hiking, golf, or gardening.
- Play with the children in your life.
- Check out the track at a nearby school.
- Think of physical activity as a special time to refresh your body and mind.

Build activities into your day
- Do strength exercises while watching TV.
- Use a workout game on your gaming console.
- Take a walk during lunch.
- Go for a walk or a bike ride before you sit down to enjoy dinner or a movie.

When To Check With Your Doctor

Certain physical activities are safe for most people. If you have a chronic health condition such as heart disease, arthritis, diabetes, or other symptoms, talk with your doctor first.

Learn more about the risks of physical activity for certain groups on the NHLBI website.

5 Super Healthy Native American Foods
Submitted by: Jessica Powskey  | Hualapai Health, Education & Wellness

Hualapai Tribal Practices for Wellness in Indian Country’s objective is to promote traditional diets. This article focuses on Native American Foods. By educating our community about Native Foods, we want our people to eat more of what will be set foods to eat. This article features 5 healthy foods native to the Americans.

5 Super-Healthy Native American Foods
By Wendy C. Fries, WebMD

Some traditional Native American foods are rich in nutrition as well as heritage.

Thanksgiving may be the only time many of us are aware of the influence of Native American foods on what we eat. Yet, if some dietitians and devoted cooks had a say, that would change.

That’s because traditional American fare -- from North, Central, or South America -- contains a rich and colorful palate of heart-healthy foods, such as beta-carotene-packed pumpkin, fiber-loaded beans, and antioxidant-rich berries.

"Traditional Native American food [is] as varied as the Americas from which it originated," Harold H. Baxter, DDS, author of the pending book Dining at Noah’s Table, tells WebMD.

Yet it’s all too easy to overlook Native American fruits and vegetables in our modern diets, experts say.

"We just don’t eat enough of most of these [traditional] foods any more," says David Grotto, RD, author of an upcoming book on eating traditionally called 101 Foods That Could Save Your Life.

"Our cupboard used to be our medicine cabinet. A solution to a lot of what ails us may be getting back to these traditional foods."

Here are five familiar Native American foods that would make healthy additions to any diet:

1. Corn

Traced back to Central and South America, corn has served Native Americans as both drink and diet staple; its husks as dolls, masks, even fuel. Along with squash and beans, corn makes up the revered trinity many Native Americans call "The Three Sisters," vegetables frequently sown together.

"The corn provided a stalk for the bean vines to climb around, and the beans returned the favor by replacing the nitrogen in the soil," Chief Roy Crazy Horse writes in an article on the Powhatan Renape Nation’s website. "The squash spread out its broad shady leaves to keep other plants from crowding out the corn."

Corn is also nutritious, containing vitamins C and K, phytochemicals, B vitamins, and fiber. Another bonus: Corn just may help to prevent cancer.

"One of corn’s phytochemicals, cryptoxanthin, was shown in one study to offer a 27% reduction in lung cancer risk," says Grotto, who is also a spokesman for the American Dietetic Association.

Indigenous recipes for this ubiquitous food include sweet corn soup and chowder, cornbread, and popcorn. Enjoy ears fresh or roasted, and cut corn into salads or wraps. And try different colored corn when it’s available -- those colors represent different body-boosting phytochemicals, says Grotto.

2. Berries

Growing wild across many parts of America, blackberries, strawberries, blueberries, and raspberries played a part in many native diets, including those of the Natchez and Muskogean.

Serving up healthy portions of fiber, vitamins, and minerals, berries have been shown by some research to help protect against stroke and heart disease. While blackberries and raspberries have nearly double the fiber of strawberries and blueberries, a cup of strawberries contains more vitamin C than you’ll need in a day.

"Blackberries, raspberries, and strawberries also contain several types of bioflavonoid phytochemicals," says Elaine Magee, MPH, RD, the "Recipe Doctor" for the WebMD Weight Loss Clinic and the author of Comfort Food Makeovers.

"Blackberries, raspberries, strawberries, and blueberries contain some phenolic acid phytochemicals," too, Magee adds. "These phytochemical families (bioflavonoids and phenolic acids) have powerful antioxidant duties in the body and may help protect us against cancer."

Berries appear in Ojibwe and Sioux recipes for teas, puddings, and berry soup. You can also try mixing them into your own signature berry jam, as Magee does, or in pies, cakes, and muffins, and over hot or cold cereal.

3. Pumpkin

"I think pumpkin should be a core food in our culture," Grotto says. "There's so much goodness in it." Case in point: Just one cup of pumpkin is packed with potassium and fiber, and has more than 300% of the Recommended Daily Allowance of vitamin A. It’s also rich in the antioxidant beta-carotene, which may help slow aging and reduce problems related to type 2 diabetes, according to the American Dietetic Association.

Oneida recipes for pumpkin and squash include cranberry pumpkin cake and silky winter squash soup. You might also include pumpkin in stews, or try a Grotto trick for this bright treat: Carve mini pumpkins, stuff with red potatoes, then roast them. "Kids love them that way," he says.

4. Mushrooms

Mushrooms aren't usually thought of as especially nutritious. And while it's true they're not very nutrient-dense, that shouldn't be the only way we look at a food's value, says Grotto.

"If you look at the antioxidants in mushrooms, they're just wonderful," he says.

By helping to war off damaging free radicals -- molecules that may play a role in the development of heart disease and cancer -- antioxidants are what make mushrooms shine.

Even the lowly white button mushroom brings a lot of antioxidant pop to the table, as well as glucans, which may help lower cholesterol, Grotto adds. While picking wild mushrooms is a hobby only for the well-informed, you can enjoy traditional foods with mushrooms found at the supermarket.

"Try a grilled Portobello and teriyaki sandwich instead of meat," suggests Grotto. Mushrooms can also take center stage in sauces, stir-frys, soups, pates, and spreads. Or savor them over acorn squash with sage and onion -- a perfect fall treat.

5. Beans

Completing the three sisters trinity, beans were a staple of the Navajo, Creek, Iroquois, and others. Tiny nutrient powerhouses, beans like black, red, and pinto pack a healthy punch. Along with being fiber-rich, they're good sources of cardiovascular-boosting potassium, B vitamins, and folic acid. An excellent low-fat source of protein, they're cholesterol-free, too.

Reporting on a study that rated 100 foods for their disease-fighting antioxidant capacity, Grotto tells WebMD that small red beans topped the list, with red kidney beans and pinto beans following in third and fourth place. Black beans showed up in the top 20.

Traditional ways to enjoy them include succotash and bean salad. Beans of every stripe can also find their way into chili, soups, burritos, and tacos.

When I gave a promise to Abraham, I made him to wait because I had a plan. When Daniel was thrown in the lion’s den, I never took that situation from him... because I had a plan. When Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego were put into the burning furnace, I never took that situation away from them, because I had a plan.

When I led Israelites toward the Red Sea. I had a plan. When Joseph was thrown in the pit and jail, I never took that situation away from him because I had a plan. I never stopped Peter and his friends from catching fish for the whole night, because in the morning, I had a plan.

Whenever I allow something to happen without a plan; I will never do anything in your life. You may be going through some situations, which you may know or may not know why it is happening. But let me tell you, there is still more blessing ahead of you. So, don’t lose your faith by seeing your situation. So believe in me! More on by trusting me and by knowing who “I AM!” Always remember “I AM YOUR GOD!” Nothing happens other than what I say in your life. Amen!

Proudly Announces and Congratulates
January 2021 Volunteer of the Month:
Steve DeFord, aka Pastor Steve

Steve DeFord, aka Pastor Steve has been an invaluable Peach team member for many years and has supported KWLP since the time it was EPCH and internet only. Pastor Steve is host of Redeemed and Free airing on Wednesday evenings and Sunday mornings on 100.9 fm. During his show Pastor Steve shares scripture and features Southern Gospel music. Steve is well known in the PSA community as Pastor Steve of the Hualapai Baptist Highway Church. Three of his sons were original KIDSTAR show hosts on EPCH. His wife, Miss Sherry teaches at the local Church school and Hosta the opening show segment during Redeemed and Free: “The Truth with Miss Sherry.” His brother Jeff to shares his syndicated show: “Down to the Roots” with Peach listeners at no cost to the station. It immediately follows Steve’s show on Wednesday evenings.

Steve has always impressed staff with his natural broadcasting aptitude. (It must run in the family!) Steve continued to be a consistent presence on the air during the Covid pandemic by submitting his shows digitally, even despite experiencing family illness and loss to the virus. This last holiday season, he and his family prepared an extra show for Peach listeners: an inspirational and joyful “Christmas at Home,” at a time when many of us were struggling with a very different celebration. When able, Steve helps at events, solicits advertisers and contributes regularly to give aways, as well. He rarely misses a meeting or training either! We truly appreciate all he does with and for KWLP and the community!

Hank’yu Steve!

Pastor Steve will receive an Amazon gift card for $100 as his incentive for being Volunteer of the Month!
