ATTEST:
Shanna S. Salazar, Secretary
Hualapai Tribal Council
The wildland season is upon us which mean there are natural and man caused ignitions. All fires within the spring through the summer and early fall are likely not beneficial to the landscape and harmful to the public. Help support the local Wildland Fire Management and Structure Fire Department by creating defensible space around your residence. Defensible space includes strategically placing your wood pile away structures (home, storages, propane tank), properly storing propane bottles, checking the surface fuel (grasses, shrubs) that lead up to your property and also includes dead or overhanging trees. By changing the orientation of your fuels and creating defensible space will reduce the danger to your family and property.

August of 2020, Buck Fire located near the Music Mountain community off Rt. 66 and the effect of prevailing wind pushed the fire toward the Music Mountain community and the residence off Buck & Doe. If you need assistance preparing for a potential wildland fire, feel free to contact the Forestry & Wildland Fire Management program to assist in reducing the risk of a wildland fire.

The Hualapai Green Arrow Gardening Project
(Sal Gav de G'vasu:wa gwe' hwa:l jo)
Series #5, April 23, 2021

Spring is always a wonderful time of the year. It’s the time to put seeds in starter pots, and prepare your garden for the upcoming season. When we talk about seed quality we tend to believe that they are all the same. It does take a little understanding in order to find the right plant that would best suit your garden’s success. Just like soil, seeds have a range of qualities that can be explained, in order to know what works for every gardener.

Seeds come as open pollinated varieties, which are considered “breed true.” When the plants of an open pollinated variety self-pollinated by another representation of the same variety, and so the resulting seed will produce plants identically to the parent plants. Open pollinated varieties are also often referred to as standard varieties or, when seeds have been saved across generations or across several decades they are referred to as “Heirloom” varieties.

Heirloom varieties are usually open pollinated, but all open pollinated are not necessarily heirlooms. Heirloom seeds are often saved by home gardeners and farmers. They tend to be the crops that do well in a particular soil, and have resistances to variant in plant viruses, blights and other diseases, and visa-versa, open pollinated varieties are produced through natural pollination without breeding controls. They may be produced to have resistances for all soils conditions, and are tolerant in many locations. These would be the seeds that you would want in order to have healthy plants and to be able to save their seeds.

Hybrid seeds also have to be labeled on the packets (F1), modern hybrids are produced by cross-pollinating two distinct, inbred parents. Difficult to save their seeds, not impossible, but will not reproduce identically to the parent plant. Hybrids can be one of the best seeds for the one-time crop. They are resistant to plant disease. They have qualities that produce healthy plants and can be used in areas of the country that may not be indigenous to that location. So, yes, a hybrid seed may be a good choice. Usually when you purchase from a general nursery like Walmart, Home Depot, Lowes, etc. you will more than likely pick-up a hybrid.

Organic seeds set standards that eliminate or reduce chemical inputs. Organic is regulated by the USDA National Organic program and have to be approved as to their authentic organic standards. Usually an organic grower will advertise for sales on a specific site, and will not be readily available in commercial sales.

There are also seeds that are grown for commercial reason. Treated seeds that are coated with a fungicide or pesticide. Not allowed in organic gardens. These seeds can usually be identified by their fluorescent colors such as pink or blue. GMO (Genetically Modified Organism) seeds come in large plots for commercial use, such as a farmer that is growing in large parcels such as corn, wheat, etc. GMO’s can be a lengthy conversation and how our food system has become bombarded with Modifiers in our seeds. Which is why, it’s good to know something about seed varieties and how to select seeds when you are making choices.

Another form of seed selection is ‘wild crafted’ in which, this method is collected from wild plants growing in natural environments. This form of collecting would be plants that produce edible fruits or veggies that are desirable, and would be easily managed if located nearby, either in a garden or a landscape that is created just for the plant to grow successfully. One of my Auntie’s would grow wild berry plants, in which she ‘wild crafted’ the seeds so as to propagate them near her home. I know this works, but it doesn’t satisfy all the other plants that you would want to yield in your garden.

It was a simple act of our ancestors that began identifying and domesticating food plants thousands of years ago. Seed selecting was seeing the quality and the productivity of a particular crop, and then replanting the seeds. It was important to set aside seeds, as well as maintaining the best crop for harvest, the two go hand and hand. The United States is a melting pot of immigrants from around the World. We are blessed with access to vegetable varieties from every corner of the world invariably brought along with immigrating families. Their seed treasures were sown into dressers, smuggled in linings of suitcases, seeds that were brought here and planted successfully and were a simple reminder of their own country.

The Hualapai Cultural Community Garden is up and ready for community members to start working in the garden and putting in a crop for your use. Garden work days are every Monday. If you wish to be part of this year’s garden season, join us as we start the planting to harvest. You can get in touch with us at: 769-2234. Join us at the Green Arrow Garden at the Hualapai Cultural Center.

9. CURRENT EVENTS

a. SUPERINTENDENT COMMENTS

Indian Health Services - Music Mountain Jr/Sr High School

The Indian Health Services is renovating currently. I reached out to Mr. Hanson about an agreement with Dr. Clark for the I.H.S. workers to use our temporary office modulars for about 6 to 8 weeks at Music Mountain Jr/Sr High School. We are happy to accommodate and collaborate with them.

Music Mountain Academy On-line Application

We will be submitting the application to the Board of Education by the end of the week. We are enormously proud about this! It has been a labor of love!

School calendar and Employee work calendar

We have school and employee calendars for 2 years out as a consent voting item. We will be able to post our school calendars for parents, planning, and community members for the 2021/22 and 2022/23 school years.

COVID-19 communication

I penned a letter to parents regarding COVID-19. Even in light of Governor Ducey’s recent Executive Order Peach Springs School District will continue to wear masks when inside the building, social distancing, and washing hands. I anticipate that being in place through May 20th.

Hybrid Schedule Update

We are in week three. Overall, our students are attending, and we are responding as quickly as we can to technology needs. Our teachers have been super amazing! They have built relationships through Zoom and the students knew their teachers when attending in person. It is great to have the students back in the building!

Tribal Collaboration

We continue to have our Tribal Department meetings at the beginning of each month. A lot of my collaboration happens with Dr. Clark or Leon Ghahate in Tribal Education. A great deal of it is informally as well. I penned a letter of recommendation for Tribal Education as they applied for a new grant. The collaboration has been great!

10. INFORMATIONAL ITEMS

a. DISTRICT FINANCIAL REPORT - Gloria Herrera

Update District Expenditures
Short but incredibly positive financial report today. Our fund balance report – we have increased in all our major funds. In our – M&O Fund we are at $705,853.08. Impact Aide is at $6,143,430.16. We have the 011 Fund which is at $50,276.42. The 012 Fund is at $100,274.14 and 013 Fund is at 151,683.34. All of these have increased.

Next month will be a more comprehensive report because we are currently working on a letter to the state to recalculate the funds we owe for the Transwestern Pipeline. These funds were at no fault to us. It was the way the state calculated taxes. We hope we will get help from the state to repay those funds. We will also have a Budget Revision coming up in our May board meeting.

b. DISTRICT ACADEMIC REPORT - Amy Rodriguez

Collaborative Team Cycle

- What do we expect our students to learn?
- How will we know they are learning?
- How will we respond when they do not learn?
- How will we respond if they already know it?

We spent a lot of time on what should students be learning in 5th and 6th grades and making sure teachers have a clear understanding of that.

Professional Development

- PS Data Dig Protocol
- Foundations of Reading
- Test Talks

We have really dug into as a teacher how do you dig into your data and look at what is it that each individual student has learned and still needs to learn. We have had the teachers look at the data all the way down to the standards level. Then we also taught some ideas and strategies for our next steps. How to help those students in the different areas where they have deficits. Last week we spent a lot of time getting our kids ready for the state assessment that is coming up. We have talked about how to prepare our students for the academic piece that is coming. What are those test taking strategies?

We taught them how to do “test talks” in both math and reading. We taught the teachers how to teach students to break the problems apart into smaller pieces, so they can attack them and have success with some of those problems. We will be doing another Galileo assessment at the end of the year to see that growth from late February to mid-May. That will give us some good information moving forward into the summer and fall.

c. HR/PROJECT MANAGEMENT REPORT Brian Duguid

We have been renovating classrooms, painting, etc. The CloudIT Team will be on site this Thursday to view the technology we currently have, reviewing what we need to fix or bring up to speed, what we may need to purchase, and what we need to bring Music Mountain Academy online.

d. DISTRICT PBIS/SOCIAL AND EMOTIONAL SUPPORT REPORT – Mr. Santiago

School Resource Officer:
Officer Wright was introduced to all our students at school. He is working on his National Certification for school resource officer. As he completes that he will work with our teachers. It is great to see that he is naturally blending in, and this is great for the community moving forward.

Beyond Textbooks/PBIS:
Training update.

Heather Stough: I am a Communication and Connections Director. I have had the privilege of consulting with Beyond Textbooks with Peach Springs. I have enjoyed getting to know everyone. I wear the PBIS hat. What PBIS focuses on is building and maintaining positive behaviors and connections. We will start building an action plan this month. Then I will come back in May and will start the steps of building an acknowledgment system around the positive behaviors and expectations that you already have, and then build off there.

Levi Hedgepeth: I have had a wonderful time in Peach Springs this past week. I have spent a lot of time in classrooms observing and shooting some videos of good practices that teachers are currently doing and introducing a couple of new fun ideas for promoting positive behaviors in the classroom. We did two Personal Development sessions and talked about classroom procedures and how to make effective processes for that. One of our sessions we discussed how to teach classroom expectations and how to reward students for engaging in positive behavior in the classroom.

Michelle Zephier: I have a question on the gas card and gas reimbursements. Periodically through the vouchers you will see gas for this car and that car. So, why are they paying $300.00 for gas for the year and then all these other little gas things come up?

Mr. Santiago: You might see two things there as we transition away from using personal funds/reimbursement to WEX gas cards.

Michelle Zephier: How long have we had the gas cards?

Gloria Herrera: I believe we received those in October.

Michelle Zephier: Then you guys should have been way out of that transition period. When I was on the board in 2017/18, we caught a lot of the teachers/staff putting in reimbursements for gas when there was none. That is why we got the gas cards for the District. And they just utilize that, and no more out of pocket.
Gloria Herrera: I believe what you are seeing there is a reimbursement for travel to Phoenix for training, which was approved last board meeting for Rose Mahkewa who is our kitchen manager. One weekend she used her personal vehicle and the next weekend she used a school vehicle.

Arson Facts

According to Bureau of Indian Affairs Branch of Fire Management:

- Every year wildland arson fires claim lives, property, and natural resources in Indian Country.
- In 2005, human caused ignitions accounted for an estimated 5,585 wildland fires burning 44,556 acres of Indian lands. This equates to approximately 82% of all fires and 64% of all Indian acres burned as a result of a human caused ignition.
- In 2005, approximately 42% or 2,344 of the 5,585 human caused wildland fires occurring in Indian Country were deliberately set or suspected to have been deliberately set. In 2005, the suppression of wildland fires occurring on Indian Lands cost the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the American Taxpayers $57 million.
- Young people currently represent 55% of all arson arrests (source: U.S. Fire Administration).
- Each time an arsonist sets a fire, wildland firefighters lives are put at risk. Arson fires also result in millions of dollars of damage to Native American natural and cultural resources each year.

Native And Indigenous Communities And Mental Health

CULTURAL FACTORS

- Many Native/Indigenous tribes embrace a worldview that encompasses the notions of connectedness (with the past and with others), strong family bonds, adaptability, oneness with nature, wisdom of elders, meaningful traditions and strong spirit that may serve as protective factors when it comes to mental health. [3]

PREVALENCE

- Native/Indigenous people in America report experiencing serious psychological distress 2.5 times more than the general population over a month’s time. [6]

- Although overall suicide rates are similar to those of whites, there are significant differences among certain age groups. The suicide death rate for Native/Indigenous people in America between the ages of 15-19 is more than double that of non-Hispanic whites. [6]

- Native/Indigenous people in America start to use and abuse alcohol and other drugs at younger ages, and at higher rates, than all other ethnic groups. [3]

TREATMENT ISSUES

- The concept of mental illness and beliefs about why and how it develops have many different meanings and interpretations among Native/Indigenous people. Physical complaints and psychological concerns are not distinguished, and Native/Indigenous people may express emotional distress in ways that are not consistent with standard diagnostic categories.

- Native/Indigenous people who meet the criteria for depression, anxiety, or substance abuse disorders are much more likely to seek help from a spiritual and/or traditional healer than from specialty or other medical sources. [3]

- Due to high levels of poverty, many Native/Indigenous people in America face economic barriers that prevent them from receiving treatment. [3]

- Lack of awareness about mental health issues and services that are available and a lack of pro-

Mental Health America works nationally and locally to raise awareness about mental health and ensures that those at-risk for mental illnesses and related disorders receive proper, timely and effective treatment. MHA incorporates culturally competent strategies to ensure that it is effectively addressing the treatment and psychosocial needs of consumers and families with diverse values, beliefs, sexual orientations, and backgrounds that vary by race, ethnicity and/or language.

DEMOGRAPHICS/SOCIETAL ISSUES

- Approximately 1.3 percent of the U.S. population, or roughly 4.2 million Americans, identify themselves as having Native American or Alaska Native heritage. [1]

- There are 573 federally recognized Native tribes and Native/Indigenous people in America speak more than 200 indigenous languages. [2][3]

- Most Native/Indigenous people in America live in Mid-West or Western states. About two-thirds now live in urban, suburban, or rural non-reservation areas; about one-third live on reservations. [3]

- Compared to the total U.S. population (14.7 percent), nearly twice as many Native/Indigenous people in America live in poverty (26.6 percent). In 2013, Native/Indigenous people were nearly twice as likely as whites to be unemployed. [9][4] programs and providers that are sensitive to native and indigenous culture can prevent Native/Indigenous people from receiving treatment.

ACCESS/INSURANCE

- Access to mental health services is severely limited by the rural, isolated location of many Native/Indigenous communities. Additionally, access is limited because most clinics and hospitals of the Indian Health Service are located on reservations, yet the majority of Native/Indigenous people in America live outside of tribal areas.[7]
- Compared to non-Hispanic whites, nearly 3 times as many Native/Indigenous people had no health insurance – 5.9 percent compared to 14.9 percent. Approximately 43 percent of Native/Indigenous people in America rely on the Medicaid or public coverage.[7]

IMPROVING BEHAVIORAL HEALTH IN INDIAN COUNTRY

In December 2016 the first-ever Tribal Behavioral Health Agenda (TBHA) was released. The TBHA is a groundbreaking formal statement recognizing the unique needs of tribal communities concerning behavioral health care and setting forth an agenda to improve the emotional, spiritual, and mental well-being of tribal members. The TBHA resulted from extensive consultation among tribal leaders, the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), Indian Health Service (IHS), and National Indian Health Board (NIHB).

The TBHA notes that the Native American population experiences a disproportionately high rate of mental health and substance abuse issues. Adult American Indians and Alaska Natives experienced higher rates of past year mental illness compared with the general population (21.2 percent versus 17.9 percent) and youth ages 12 and older had higher levels of illicit substance use than the general population (22.9 percent versus 17.8 percent) (SAMHSA). The study also addresses trauma, violence and crime, historical and current, which result from substance abuse.

The TBHA is intended to provide a unified front to battle behavioral health issues, to elevate priorities and strategies to address these challenges and to promote improved national awareness of the specific problems identified facing tribal communities. SAMHSA’s Principal Deputy Administrator Kana Enomoto said: “This new initiative represents an important step in our government-to-government relationship and gives American Indian and Alaska Native tribes a greater role in determining how to address their behavioral health needs with urgency and respect.”

The TBHA begins with the American Indian and Alaska Native Cultural Wisdom Declaration, which uses historical and cultural context to identify the issues and to set strategies and priorities for improvement. The agenda emphasizes the role that cultural wisdom and traditional practices must play in order to achieve improvements in mental health and substance abuse issues among the Indian population. Prevention, support and recovery issues must respect the need to develop unique ideas and models of health and healing interventions within tribal communities. The document recognizes that healing must focus on historical and intergenerational trauma and the need to develop a socio-cultural-ecological approach to addressing behavioral health issues.

The TBHA also acknowledges that the Native American population has traditionally been underserved and that collaborative efforts will be necessary among the tribes, and with state and federal agencies.

Stacy Bohlen, the Executive Director of the National Indian Health Board (NIHB) called the TBHA “... a valuable tool and resource to address the critical behavioral health needs we see across Indian Country.” The TBHA can be used as a helpful starting point for tribal communities to examine their own data to plan meaningful and effective responses to meet their own unique behavioral health needs.

The TBHA reflects a current nationwide behavioral health crisis that is not limited to the Native American community. SAMHSA reports that as of 2014 one-third of adults with a major depressive episode received no treatment in the previous year. The National Survey on Drug Use and Health from that same year reported that 21.2 million Americans ages 12 and older needed treatment for an illegal drug or alcohol use problem. Despite this need, there has been a 90% reduction in the number of available beds in state hospitals, with 20% eliminated in just the past five years. This results in a lack of placement and treatment options for persons with serious mental illness.

We agree with the TBHA that a successful strategy must simultaneously address the increase in behavioral health needs, as well as decreasing capacity to handle these needs. We look forward to working with Tribal governments to reverse both trends.

This is a Time: Responding to a Tragedy

As Alcohol Awareness Month ends and with National Prevention Week about to begin, I have never been more motivated as a prevention advocate to make a lasting impact on the schools and communities I serve as a speak. Unfortunately, a recent tragedy is part of my motivation to keep moving forward with my mission to save a life.

When I was a freshman in high school, a senior student-athlete, Emily, was killed in a drunk driving accident leaving the school pep rally spirit week when the convertible she was a passenger in flipped over. The students in the vehicle started drinking early in the morning before school. There were three students in the car, two survived.

I share this story every time I speak because I will never forget what it was like that next day in school. In the hallways it was either silence or cries. Memorials were displayed on her locker and at the crash site. Our entire school community was in shock.

This story also highlights the fact that you do not have to be addicted to drugs or alcohol for bad things to happen. You don’t even have to be under the influence of drugs or alcohol to suffer the consequences of substance misuse—your actions affect more than just yourself.

What if a parent violates a social host law and a teenager leaves the parent’s home driving under the influence and kills another innocent driver on the road. Think about all of the harm that flows from that incident—families and friends devastated, civil liability, criminal liability, PTSD, guilt, shame, and worst of all, the loss of a life. All it takes is one bad choice for lives to be lost and many more to be changed forever.

Tragically, another student from my hometown of Suffern, New York lost her life in a car accident when the driver, accused of driving while intoxicated, crashed into a utility pole just before 3:00am on April 24, 2021. There were five students in the car, four survived.

For those of us who lived through the tragedy with Emily, we felt like history was repeating itself. A few days after the accident I drove past the crash site where hundreds of people were laying down flowers. Students were in tears and hugging one another—it was heartbreaking. I was staring at the exact scene I have dedicated my life to prevent.

The way my hometown community where I grew up has come together in response to this unspeakable tragedy has been such a powerful experience to be a part of. The hashtag #suffernstrong is being used by members of the Suffern community in social media posts.

But some adults have a remarkable ability to forget about all of the dangerous acts and bad choices they made when they were a teenager or even in their early twenties. Some adults still drive drunk today but turn around and judge kids for doing it. Others are in denial about their own children and the choices they made.

When a teenagers makes a horrible decision, it is not a time to take to social media and label him or her a “bad kid” or their parents “bad parents”. It’s not a time to be demanding that a young kid be thrown in prison—it is a time for something much different.

I posted this on social media and received a ton of support from the Suffern community:

This is a time for the entire Suffern community to come together and have open conversations about what occurred and how to prevent it from happening again in the future. This is a time to talk about the substance use and mental health epidemic going on all across America. This is a time to talk about the importance of student leadership. This is a time for adults to remember what it was like to be a teenager. This is a time for adults to empathize with teenagers during a pandemic because you never experience that. This is a time for parents to have a heart to heart with their children and let hem know how much you love them. This is a time for parents to remind their children that they can call them anytime they are in a bad situation and need a safe ride home. This is a time to feel for ALL of those who have been directly affected by this tragedy. This is a time to turn a mess into a message.

My heart goes out to the families, friends and the entire Suffern community. #suffernstrong

Belated Mother's Day messages:
Understand how a mom is!

Never forget (for a mom)
How far you've come.
Everything you have gotten through.
All the times you pushed on,
even when you felt you couldn't
All the mornings you got out of bed, no matter how hard it was.
All the times you wanted to give up,
but God gave you strength for the day and made a way,
when you saw no way!
Thank you Lord! Amen!

A little girl was holding two apples, her mother asked for one. The girl quickly bit one apple and then the other. Her mom held back her disappointment, then the girl handed one to her saying here, "This is the sweetest one". Moral- Never Judge!! Amen!

Father retires at 60
Mother never retires.
She works for her husband,
She works for her children,
She looks after her grandchildren,
She looks after everyone every one.
Everyone retires but mother never retires!! Amen!

10 things your mother never told you!
1. You made her cry.
2. She wanted that last piece of cake.
3. It hurts.
4. She was always afraid.
5. She knows she's not perfect.
6. She watched you as you sleep.
7. She carried you longer than 9 months.
8. It broke her heart every time you cried.
9. She always put you first.
10. She would do it all again!!

Strong women not only feel pain, they accept it.
They learn from it and fight through it.
They turned their wounds into wisdom.
They take a break to shed a tear,
but after they get back up and dust themselves off.
They fight like they never fought before! Amen!

A real man never hurts a woman,
Be very careful when you make a woman cry
because God counts her tears.
The women came out of man's rib, not from his feet to be walked on,
not from his head to be superior,
but from his side to be equal.
Under the arm to be protected and next to the heart to be loved! Amen!

Your Mom is Your Mom!
Nobody can replace her.
Nobody should replace her.
Nobody can do half the things she does or has done for you.
Nobody can compare to her,
only God can love you more than she does.
She's only one person but she's the person that matters the most.
No matter where she is... in Heaven or on Earth,
There is nothing like a mother's love!

Life doesn't come with a manual. It comes with a mother!
On an angel's wing you were taken away, but in my heart will always stay.
In Loving Memory of all Mothers - this Mother's Day!

No matter how many people are in the house, if mom isn't there, the house feels really empty! So, if you have a mom-love her like you never loved her before! Amen!

Happy belated Mother's Day to all your mother's! Amen!

Hwal ba'i Gumyu jeh?
(Hualapai People, how are you)

Nachta, Zeke Smith coming to you with a warm heart-felt gesture, tribal member and optimistic figure. I would like to speak and express my heart. To be where I'm at today, is learning that life is the best outcome of what I make of it.

People come and go as we all please, like the seasons there's always something to learn no matter what age you are. As for myself, speaking for me, I've seen there's many kinds of chances, depending who you are. I believe that I come from a good mother. I've come a long way to see the future. And be a part of the generations of generations.

What a destruction on all the people of the world. Covid-19 and 3 most threatening viruses B117 strain. To those that do not know what isolation is, yet, it means lock down and what effect it causes. Look at it this way, when man and woman get together the love of people (Hualapai) mean the braid coming together only to make to a whole that's unbreakable. Stay home and mask up! PSA. I am very saddened at the loss of loved ones in the community and my condolences to the families. Here's a saying.

You don't get over it, you get through it... it doesn't get better, it gets different... every day, just like me, grief puts on a new face. As for me, life is "where born to die". This is very true, we are all here for some good reason and purpose to receive eternal life, once more again. COL 2, 3:3 For you died to this life and
The Power of Affirmations

The Power of Affirmations

Occasionally, when I'm preparing to write my monthly newsletter article, I will review old articles for ideas and inspiration. This month I was reminded of the power of affirmations in an article I wrote in July 2019. I've decided it's an excellent topic because many of us are seeking ways to improve our mental outlook. I began reading daily affirmations in 2018. In the beginning, I was diligent about reading them everyday and didn't miss a day for almost 2 years. But I got busy, then 2020 happened, and little-by-little I started reading my affirmations less and less. Because, you know, quarantining takes lots of work!!! I began each day by scanning Pinterest as I enjoyed my first cup of coffee. One day I ran across an article that reminded me of the power of affirmations. The article suggested that to change a habit takes 21 days but to make a lifestyle change you need to do something everyday for 90 consecutive calendar days.

I'm ready for a mental boost. I bet you are too. So, I have recommitted to reading my affirmations daily! They still work!!! It works fantastically. It's become a part of my morning routine again and I am happy to report that I've not missed a day since I restarted. I've experienced a positive change in my attitude, both mental and physical: my heart has improved, and my livelihood is on the upswing!

Here's a review of what I've done in the past and I'm doing it again:

1. Found a platform: I use Pinterest to build a board entitled affirmations and search for quotes that inspired me. It took me several months to get the right combination and to organize my affirmations in a way that motivated me.

2. Created and organized categories: I came up with five categories and organized my affirmations with a few of my affirmations:

   A. Opening and ending with "I am" statements:
   - "I am".
   - I am sacred.
   - I am wise.
   - I am patient.

As a young child my Goda always told me you have to be a man to provide for yourself, nobody going to help you until you ask. I never understood what she meant. That's one of the best pieces of advice she offered. So today, it's about hard work and determination. I let go many moons ago for easier handout, I am good at what I do don't get me wrong, there's nothing wrong with asking. Seek and you shall find.

My education is important at the moment and am asking kindly of my Hualapai educational to write a correspondence my way and please call corroborate. I have made my decision to start backwards in life and pick up myself. And finish this marathon. I gave up too much time to stay down. Watching the world pass me up. Whose fair? So as I come to my conclusion I just like to say semi: Bah Mi Han Micha (Hualapai be all good) Mah! Laters. Sincerely Zeke Smith.
• I am joyful.

B. Gratitude and thankfulness:
• I awaken today, appreciating everything within sight and I give thanks.
• I honor my diving soul essence.
• My life is full of wonder and joy, I am truly grateful for all that I have.
• I focus my intention of gratitude and love.
• I love life!

C. Manifesting, livelihood and Prosperity:
• Manifesting wealth is easy and fun.
• All that I am, all that I have, all that I give, all that I receive is blessed and multiplied every single day.
• I let go of all my fears about money.
• I am thankful for my ability to manage my money well.
• My financial future is secure.

D. Health, wellness, body image and healing:
• I love taking good care of myself.
• I am feeling healthy and strong today.
• I am letting go of any desire to eat unhealthy foods.
• I love every cell of my body.
• I am in perfect health.

E. Being grounded and connected to my consciousness, angels and higher power:
• I trust my inner wisdom.
• I invite peace and harmony to dwell in me in surround me at all times.
• I surround myself with people who lift me higher.
• I am surrounded by love and everything is fine.
• I love being me.

3. Read affirmations every morning: I've recommitted to read my affirmations every morning within the first 30 minutes of waking. I can honestly report that it's become a part of my everyday routine—AGAIN!!

I am so grateful for my daily affirmations. I can promise you it matters, and it makes a difference. I've always been the type of person to see the glass half full instead of half empty but reading my affirmations on a daily basis has truly taken my inner peace and tranquility to a whole new level.

I hope you'll try it to and let me know how it works for you.

The practice of firing 3 rifle volleys over the grave. Military funeral honors may include the firing of 3 rifle volleys over the grave during interment. The President of the United States, as Commander-in-Chief of the country's Armed Forces, has authorized this honor. The firing of three volleys over the grave of a fallen Warrior has its origin in the old custom of halting the fighting to remove the dead from the battlefield. Once the dead were removed, three musket volleys were fired as a signal that the battle could resume. A firing party of seven service members traditionally fires the volley. The fact that a firing party might consist of seven service members firing three volleys does not constitute a 21-gun salute. It has also been suggested that the custom may have deeper roots. In Roman customs, mourners would cast soil on the coffin three times and this constituted a burial. They would also call the deceased by name three times and upon departure, say farewell three times.

21-Gun Salute

Salute by cannon or artillery is a military tradition that originated in the 14th century. The 21-gun salute, commonly recognized by many nations, is the highest honor rendered. The custom stems from naval tradition, when a warship would signify its lack of hostile intent by firing its cannons out to sea until all ammunition was spent. The British Navy developed the custom of 7-gun salute because naval vessels typically had 7 guns (and possibly also due to the number seven's biblical significance). Because greater quantities of gunpowder could be stored on dry land, forts could fire 3-rounds for every one fired at sea—hence the number 21. With the improvement of naval gun powder, honors rendered at sea increased to 21, as well. The 21-gun salute eventually became the International standard.

In the United States, the custom has changed over the time. In 1810, the war department defined the "national salute" as equal the number of States in the Union (at the time, 17). The salute was fired by all US military installations on Independence Day and whenever the President visited a military installation. In 1842, the 21-gun salute was designated as the "Presidential Salute", and in 1875 the United States followed Britain and adopting the 21-gun salute as its International Salute. Today, the US military fires a 21-gun salute in honor of a national flag, the sovereign or chief of state of a foreign nation, a member of a reigning royal family, and the president, ex-presidents and president elect of the United States. The 21-gun salute is also fired at noon on George Washington's birthday, President's Day, Memorial Day, Independence Day, at the day of the funeral of a president, ex-president or president elect. Gun salutes for other US and foreign military and civilian leaders vary in number, based on protocol in the honorees rank. The salutes are always in odd numbers. The 21-gun salute is not to be confused with 3-volley salute (or 3-rifle volley) rendered at military honors funerals, which you might see or hear.
at Arlington national cemetery.

It is a soldier, not the minister who has given us freedom of religion. It is a soldier, not the reporter who has given us freedom of press. Is the soldier, not the poet who has given us freedom of speech. It is a soldier, not the campus organizer who has given us freedom to protest. It is a soldier, not the lawyer who has given us the right to a fair trial. It is a soldier, not the politician who has given us the right to vote. It is a soldier who salutes the flag, who serves beneath the flag, and whose coffin is draped by the flag, who allows the protestor to burn the flag.”

Charles M Province

The Meaning of the Flag Draped Coffin.

What a wonderful lesson this was for me. I do not recall ever being taught this in school. "the meaning of the flag draped coffin". All Americans should be given this lesson. Those who think that America is an arrogant nation should really reconsider that thought. Our founding fathers used God's word and teachings to establish our great nation and I think it's high time Americans get re-educated about this nation's history. Please pass it along and be proud of the country we live in, and even more proud of those who serve to protect our God-given rights and freedoms. I hope you take the time to read this... to understand what the flag draped coffin really means. Here is how to understand the flag that laid upon it and is surrendered to so many widows and widowers: do you know that at military funerals, the 21 gun salute stands for the sum of the numbers in the year 1776? Have you ever noticed that the honor guard pays meticulous attention to correctly folding the United States of America flag 13 times? You probably thought it was to symbolize the original 13 colonies, but we learn something new every day!

The first fold of the flag is a symbol of life. The second fold is a symbol of the belief in eternal life. The third fold is made in honor and work remembrance of the veterans departing the rings who gave a portion of their lives for the defense of the country to attain peace throughout the world. The fourth fold represents the weaker nature, for us American citizens trusting in God, it is to him we turn in times of peace as well as in time of war for his divine guidance. The fifth fold is a tribute to the country, for in the words of Stephen Decatur, our country, in dealing with other countries, may she always be right; but it is still our country, right or wrong. The sixth fold is for where people's heart lie. It is with their heart that they pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and Justice for all. The seventh fold is a tribute to the Armed Forces, for it is through the Armed Forces that they protect their country in their flag against all her enemies, whether they be found within or without the boundaries of the Republic. The eighth fold is a tribute to the one who entered in The Valley of the shadow of death, that we might see the light of day. The ninth fold is a tribute to women who could, and mothers. For it has been through their faith, there love, loyalty and devotion that the character of the men and women who have made this country great has been molded. The tenth fold is a tribute to the father, for he, to, has given his sons and daughters for the defense of their country since they were 1st born. The eleventh fold represents the lower portion of the seal of king David and king Solomon and glorifies in the Hebrew eyes Kama the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. The twelfth fold represents an emblem of eternity and glorifies, in the Christian's eyes, God the father, the son and the Holy Spirit. The thirteenth fold, or when the flag is completely folded, the stars are uppermost reminding them of their nation's motto, in God we trust. After the flag is completely folded and tucked in, it takes on the appearance of a cup tap, ever reminding us of the soldiers who served under general George Washington, and the sailors and Marines who served under captain John Paul Jones, who were followed by their comrades in shipmates in the armed forces of the United States, preserving for them the rights, privileges and freedoms they enjoy today. There are some traditions and ways of doing things that have deep meaning. In the future, you'll see flags folded in now you will know why. Please share this with the children you love and all others who love what is referred to as a symbol of liberty and freedom.

Maybe the Supreme Court should read this explanation before they render their decision on the pledge of allegiance. Forward it maybe someone with the necessary power or political and financial influence, will get it to them. In the meantime, may God protect us always. One nation, under God, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Let's not forget that there were 33 different tribes that were code talkers during World War I and 2, not just the Navajo. The Dine were the biggest group. But the very first group was the Choctaws in World War 1. HOHOU #NationalCodeTalkerDay

Gold Star Mother's Day is observed in the United States on the last Sunday of September each year. It is A-day for people to recognize and honor those who have lost a son or daughter while serving the United States armed forces. Each year on gold star Mother's Day the United States president calls on all Americans to display the nation's flag and hold appropriate meetings to publicly express their love, sorrow, and reverence towards gold star mothers and their families. Government buildings are also required to display the flag.

Background

The name the gold star mothers was derived from the custom of military families who put a service flag near their front window. The flag featured a star for each family member serving in their country-living members were denoted in blue but gold stars honored family members who were killed while in duty. In 1918 President Woodrow Wilson approved the wearing of black armbands bearing a gilt star by those who had a family member who died in the military serving to the United States. This distinguished them from the blue stars, representing a family member presently serving in the armed forces. American Gold Star Mothers, Inc. was incorporated in 1929, obtaining a federal charter from the US Congress. It began with 25 mothers living in the Washington DC area and soon expanded to include affiliated groups throughout the nation. On June 23rd, 1936, a joint congressional resolution designated the last Sunday in September as gold star Mother's Day, a holiday that has been observed each year by a presidential proclamation.

I never knew... DID YOU?

If any of you have ever been to a military funeral in which taps was played; this brings out a new meaning of it. Here is something every American should know. Until I read this, I didn't know, but I checked it out and it's true. We in the United States have all heard the haunting song, "taps that in" it's the song that gives us the lump in our throats and usually tears in our eyes. But, do you know the story behind the song? If not, I think you will be interested to find out about its humble beginnings. Reportedly, it all began in 1862 during the Civil War, when Union army captain Robert Ely was with his men near Harrison's landing in Virginia. The Confederate army was on the other side of the narrow strip of land. During the night, captain Eli heard the moans of a soldier who lay severely wounded on the field. Not knowing if it was a Union or Confederate soldier, the captain decided to risk his life and bring the stricken man back for medical attention. Crawling on his stomach through the gunfire, the captain reached the stricken soldier and began pulling him towards his encampment. When the captain finally reached his own lines, he discovered it was actually a Confederate soldier, but the soldier was dead. The captain lit a lantern in suddenly cut his breath in numb with shock. In the dim light, he saw the face of the soldier. It was his own son. The boy had been studying music in the South when the war broke out. Without telling his father, the boy enlisted in the Confederate army. The following morning, heartbroken, the father asked permission of his superiors to give a son a full military burial, despite his enemy status. His request was only partially granted. The captain had asked if he could have a group of army band members play a funeral dirge for his son at the funeral. The request was turned down since the soldier was a Confederate. But, out of respect for the father, they did say they could give him only one musician. The captain chose a bugler. He asked the bugler to play a series of musical notes he had found on a piece of paper in the pocket of the dead youth's uniform. This wish was granted. The haunting melody, we know as taps used at military funerals was born. The words are:

"Day is done. Gone the Sun. From the lakes, from the hills, from the sky. All is well. Safely rest. God is nigh. Fading light, dims the sight. And a star gems the sky, gleaming bright. From afar, drawing near. Falls the night. Thanks and praise for our days. Neath the Sun, neath the stars, neath the sky. As we go, this we know. God is nigh."

I too have felt the chills while listening to "Taps" but I have never seen all the words to the song until now. I didn't even know there was more than one verse. I also never knew the story behind the song and I didn't know if you had either, so I thought I pass it along. I now have an even deeper respect for the song than I did before. Remember those lost, unharmed while serving their country. Also, remember those who have served and returned, and for those presently serving in the armed forces. Please send this on for our soldiers and please don't break it. I didn't!

My name is Heather Nieto, Training and Development Manager for the Grand Canyon Resort Corporation (GCRC). I was born in Silver Spring, Maryland and my parents are Karen Dashee and David Nieto. I have lived on and off the Hualapai reservation my entire life and in 2007 I made it my permanent home. I have pursued my passion for cooking and received my Culinary Diploma from the Arizona Culinary Institute, I have also achieved my Associates in Business Administration at Mohave Community college, and lastly, I am finishing up my Bachelor’s in Human Resources Management at Western Governors University and I hope to receive my degree by Fall of this year.

I started with the Corporation in 2007 at the Diamond Creek Restaurant working various positions such as a line-cook, pre-cook, and waitress, I enjoyed working for the restaurant during high school and college. In 2013 I changed direction and worked for the Hualapai River Runners (HRR) as Concierge, HRR has a team experience like no other and to be able to work on the Colorado river everyday was mesmerizing. In 2015 I joined the Hualapai Leadership Program and completed the program in 2017 and joined the Human Resources team as the Senior HR Specialist. I have been in HR since and was promoted to my current position, the Training and Development Manager. My position is very rewarding but also has its challenges.

The Corporation has helped me develop into the leader I am today, and it is the reason I push hard to give back to my team members and community. I enjoy working with the various departments and team members of the Corporation, everyone in this company has unique traits, gifts, personalities, and potential. I want to continue to develop in the company and hopefully one day run a department. I would like to end by stating I do appreciate this recognition and time from both the Board of Directors and Tribal Council to hear my story.

Thank you!
Heather Nieto
Wingapo,

My name is Calvina and I'm the daughter of Carla. I'm the oldest of 3 younger siblings Denzel, Shaelene and Lance. My maternal grandmother is Wynona Sinyella. My great grandparents are Grant Tapia and Phoebe Tapia. I come from a long line of champs.

This will be my first year working with Grand Canyon West. I started at the Call Center back on October 23, 2019. When I was told I was selected for being recognized in the Call Center, I asked my manager "Why me?" She said "Because you're a Star, you just need some light." Chanele is always looking out for me and pushing me to do better. I'm always taking on her challenges even when I think I can't do something I prove myself wrong. Being at the Call Center I've had the opportunity to experience customer service and speak to millions of guests over the phone. Since the beginning of 2021 until now I've been the top seller in the Call Center. Trying to end every call in a sale isn't very easy but it's my goal right when I walk into my cubicle. I have a great team who I work with but in particular I would like to thank two individuals for always guiding me into the right direction and pushing me to be better. Thank you, Keona, and Chanele. I enjoy working with these ladies because I'm always learning something new from them each day. I look forward to being in their shoes one day with much more experience and many great opportunities, it may not be now, but I hope to get there one day. I'm also looking forward to many more years of working with them and the Call Center.

Due to covid this year it really has changed a lot with the corporation, but we still manage as a team. My goal right now is to get better at my customer service voice like I went to Harvard. I've already received a couple of certificates and gifts for the goals I've accomplished, and I hope to accomplish many more. Thank you for the time and opportunity and chance to come forward before you all.
